Drake State works with high schools for new career program

Posted: Mar 24, 2010 1:28 PM CDT
Updated: Mar 24, 2010 1:28 PM CDT

HUNTSVILLE, AL (WAFF) - Wednesday, the J.F. Drake State Technical College announced a partnership with Huntsville City School and Madison County Schools to provide students with a new comprehensive online resource for college and career planning.

The KUDER System allows 8th - 12th grade students to build a career plan based on interests, skills and work values while they explore occupational information.

Students will create a personalized profile by answering questions. The program then recommends career and college programs based on their answers. It also will provide information about financial aid for college and give access to planning tools.

"The earlier a student can become engaged in the development of a career path, the better his chances of achieving his goals. A system like KUDER, will provide a student with the tools necessary to select the right college major to fulfill his career potential. Making the right educational investment can reap a lifetime of career satisfaction," says, Helen McAlpine, President of Drake State.

Current Drake State students may access the program by contacting the College Placement Specialist or College Counselor located in E1 on the campus at Drake State.

WorldNow

All content © Copyright 2000 - 2010 WorldNow and WAFF, a Raycom Media station. All Rights Reserved.
For more information on this site, please read our Privacy Policy and Terms of Service.